

Ballard Trial Set For Today

Charles Ballard, Jeff Ballard, Albert Ballard, Joe Clem, Will Ferguson and Ed Reffit alleged Menefee county moonshiners, and also charged with the killing of three prohibition officers in recent raids on what was known as the Ballard still, will receive their preliminary hearings in Lexington today before United States Commissioner W. H. Wood, of this city.

Director Collins stated that in addition to federal charges which will be brought against Ballard, the state also will bring charges against him of murder and violation of the state prohibition laws. The charges to be brought, according to Mr. Collins, will include those of resisting federal officers in pursuit of duty, withholding evidence, conspiracy to violate the national prohibition laws, violation of the national prohibition laws and other offenses connected with the killing of the three prohibition men. Director Collins said that the cases of all the men will be pushed for a speedy justice and nothing will be left undone in prosecuting the defendants.

"FATTY" TO HAVE HIS CHANCE

Will H. Hays, chairman of the Motion Picture Industries, said yesterday that Roscoe C. ("Fatty") Arbuckle will have his chance to "come back" in the motion pictures. The statement of the case, which was given out from the headquarters of Mr. Hays, says: "Roscoe Arbuckle is to have another chance to go to work and make good if he can. After the first of the year he will be given this new opportunity. He has gone straight since he was hauled from the films last April and he has pledged his word that he will keep on going straight. His conduct has satisfied Will H. Hays, adviser of the motion picture industry, Joseph M. Schenck, who employs him, and the Paramount Company, represented by Jesse L. Lasky, which concern formerly distributed the comedies in which the fat funmaker appeared." Announcement that there would be no objection to Arbuckle's return to work was made yesterday by Mr. Hays.

Christmas Bells

Chime out, chime on, O Christmas bells,
Until each heart with gladness swells;
Ring out in all your joyous mirth
The glorious tidings—"Peace on earth"—
For on one happy, Christmas morn
The Savior of the world was born;
Ring out, nor let your music cease
Until each heart shall feel the peace
Of our dear Savior's birth, and then
Sound forth abroad: "Good will to men!"

And, O sweet Christmas bells, where'er
There is a heart bereft of cheer
By sorrow, or misfortune, there
Ring soft and low; in their despair
Bear on the wings of Christ's own love
Some soothing message from above;
And where the fire is dying out,
And hungry children roam about
Upon the streets, so frail and poor,
O sympathetic bells, be sure
To lead by your sweet song away
From all the glitter and array
The happy Christmas folk a while
To share with them their joy and smile.
So, Christmas bells, ring far and near
And fill this whole wide world with cheer.

—Evangel Ryerson.

BUS LINE TO LEXINGTON

Beginning yesterday, the Rex Bus Lines Company, with E. R. Webb as manager, inaugurated a bus line from Lexington via Winchester to this city. This company operates a number of lines out of Lexington and will make two trips daily to and from this city to the Fayette county capital. Mr. Webb states that he anticipates putting on an hourly service as soon as the Winchester pike in this county is completed. Their schedule, as will be maintained for the present, appears elsewhere in this issue.

Baptist Church Suffers Fire Loss

Wednesday afternoon about 2:30 o'clock a fire alarm was occasioned by the discovery of a fire in the Baptist church building. The fire department responded promptly and within a few minutes the water had been turned on effectively, and but for the promptness, coolness and effective work of the fire company, under the control of Chief Chene, the handsome church edifice and modern Sunday School plant would have been a total loss.

Damage from the fire, water and smoke cannot be estimated at this time, and only the adjustments of agents will be able to figure accurately the damage sustained.

Insurance amounting to $16,500, carried by the agencies of Mayor McKee and John H. Blount, was distributed as follows: On the building, $13,000; on the furniture, $1,000, and on the pipe organ, $2,500. It is the opinion of the church custodians that the loss is fully covered by insurance.

Rev. Ous Hamilton's loss of books and furniture in the church library is estimated at $2,500, with insurance of only $300. The loss is total.

It was the opinion of the custodian of the church that the building was as near fireproof as it was possible to make it. The actual cause of the fire is unknown.

As soon as adjustments have been made the church house will be rapidly restored to its former beauty, and the organ and furniture will undergo repairs as well.

GOVERNMENT LEAF LOAN WILL HELP ENTIRE STATE

General satisfaction was noted among financiers of Louisville on receipt of the news that the War Finance Corporation had approved a $75,000, 000 credit to the dark tobacco growers' co-operative association to finance the marketing of tobacco. The sentiment was that the loan would put the association on a sound financial basis and would be of great benefit to the state as a whole.

LAND SALES

Nineteen acres of land at Grassy Lick belonging to the Shunkland heirs was sold by Master Commissioner Thomas Grubbs at $41.25 per acre to John G. Winn.

Eighty-six and three-quarter acres on the Levee pike, near the city, belonging to Walter Rice, sold to B. C. Clark for $180.25 per acre.

ARGENTINA AND U. S. LEAD WORLD IN EXPORTS OF CORN

Approximately 80 per cent of the corn entering into world trade comes from Argentina and the United States according to information compiled by the United States Department of Agriculture. In 1921 shipments from the United States exceeded those from Argentina by $1,000,000 bushels, but prior to that year Argentina was usually the larger shipper, average exports from that country before the war (1900-1910) having been between one-third and one-half of all corn entering into world trade and about two and one-half times the quantity exported by the United States.

Reports of corn from Argentina in 1922 totaled about 112,000,000 bushels, or 4,000,000 bushels less than the pre-war average exports and about 12,000,000 bushels less than the exports of 1920. On the other hand, exports from the United States in 1922 were 122,000,000 bushels, which was 11,000,000 bushels more than in 1920 and about $7,000,000 bushels more than the pre-war average.

WESTERNERS IN DILEMMA

Western progressive Republicans—some of them elected in the face of opposition from the Harding administration—have made it plain that they will not permit the president to deprive them of the credit they claim for passing agricultural legislation demanded by the "farm bloc." Mr. Harding is not only expected but openly accused of expending certain bills in the hope of winning for himself the good will of the agricultural interests and thereby correspondingly weakening the radical progressives led by Senator La Follette, Republican of Wisconsin.

These co-workers of La Follette sense their power in the present session of congress and are eager to dominate legislation. They feel that they owe President Harding nothing but a grudge for two of their number—La Follette and Senator Brookhart, of Iowa—have come to the senate not only without the administration's help, but in spite of its opposition. It was their appeal to progressivism that saved them from defeat. It is the same appeal that gives them their present strength. They cannot afford to let the president wear their livery and pose as a friend of the farmer.

Without the cooperation of the Democrats in congress the western progressive Republicans cannot realize their legislative proposals, which in their essentials are nothing more or different than the program the Democrats sought to enact more than a year ago and ever since. The Republican advocacy of a fund of $100,000,000 for the federal farm banks to permit them to make loans to farmers is merely an adoption of the Democratic proposal which was rejected by the Republican majority in congress months ago.

The Democrats will support all necessary and salutary legislation in behalf of the farmers, but will insist that it be real and effective remedy for the distress of agriculture and not a mere device for the political rehabilitation of the Republican regime.

WILL WATSON SUCCEED LODGE?

Efforts to deprive Senator Lodge of his leadership of the Republican majority are being seconded if not inspired by Senator Watson, Republican, Indiana, who has revealed a desire to take command.

At a meeting of Republican senators in Senator Watson's office a few days ago there was a discussion and a general admission of the lack of cohesion in the ranks of the majority in the senate and a consensus that a "strong personality" was needed to unite the factions and insure support for President Harding's "program" during the present session of congress.

After all the testimony concerning Senator Lodge's failings and failures had been heard by the half dozen Republicans in the gathering, Senator Gooding, Republican, Iowa, suggested that if Senator Watson wasn't exactly a Moses he had some of the qualities of a Joshua, and should be selected as Republican leader.

Senator Watson then recalled his achievements as "whip" of the house back in the days of Cannonism and left a very plain inference that he was the one man who could head the Republican majority in the senate.

Within a day or two after Senator Watson's "party" Senator Lodge called a meeting of Republican senators and submitted what he described as a "progressive" program. He practically attempted to form a "Lodge bloc" to offset the group that had attended Watson's meeting. Then Senator Lodge visited President Harding—as did Watson—to obtain approval of this "progressive" program.

Senator Curtis, Republican, Kansas, who regards himself as the logical and lawful successor of Lodge, if a change in leadership is made by the senate Republicans, has been angered by Senator Watson's attempt to capture the place. Senator Curtis is as much a favorite with the eastern reactionaries as either Senator Watson or Senator Lodge, and some of these friends share his resentment at what they call a move to "double-cross" both the present leader and his understudy.

DRIED WHEY PROFITABLE?

Dairy by-products are now being used in various new ways as a result of investigations by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Good results have been obtained particularly in the manufacture of dried whey. From 100 pounds of the whey were obtained 4 pounds of crude sugar and 1 1/2 pounds of dried whey containing about 30 per cent of albumin. The dried whey was sold to a laboratory making baby food, at a price which resulted in a satisfactory return for the whey.

Dried whey and dried buttermilk are being fed experimentally to laying hens at one of the department farms. In the first half of the twelve-month experiment the pen of hens receiving dried whey produced eggs at a rate comparing favorably with results obtained with other kinds of feed.

Shipments of grapes from California have increased steadily during the last six seasons, reaching a total of approximately 38,000 cars in 1922, according to reports of the United States Department of Agriculture.

American Legion News

There is a great need for phonograph records for the Western Washington hospital at Stellacoom, Wash., the American Legion Auxiliary members were informed when they recently took delicacies to the former service men at the hospital. Twenty dozen doughnuts, cigarettes, canned fruit and three boxes of apples were distributed.

The entire sixth grade of St. Ann's parochial school, New Orleans, memorized "The American Creed," a powerful and inspiring appeal to American ideals, during the American education week. It was written by one of the sisters who teaches one of the higher grades, and was recited each day during the week. The creed follows: "I believe in the United States of America as a government of the people, for the people, whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed; a democracy in a republic; a sovereign nation of many states; a perfect union, one and inseparable, established upon those principles of freedom, equality, justice and humanity for which American patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes. I, therefore, believe it is my duty to my country to obey its laws; to respect its flag, and to defend it against all enemies."

Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, high commissioner of baseball, in an address to Jefferson Post, American Legion, Louisville, predicted that "within five years many supposedly able bodied veterans of the world war will begin to falter because of exposure and shock suffered by them in the French trenches. The American Legion is the only body which is taking an active stand for justice to disabled men, and on the legion will fall the responsibility of seeing that congress does its duty."

John B. Reynolds, secretary of the Indianapolis chamber of commerce, has assured the American Legion that the state legislature will pass a law making it illegal ever to hold another speedway classic on Memorial Day at the Indianapolis motor speedway.

The Hewitt J. Swearingen Post, American Legion, has elected a bank president as commander of the post. He is Chester Cooke, president of the Twelfth Street Bank and vice president of the Manufacturers and Mechanics' Bank at Kansas City, Mo. He once was a University of Kansas football star.

Total exclusion of all immigration for a period of five years will be urged by American Legion adjutants in all states, it was decided at a recent conference of the adjutants in Indianapolis. The legion will ask congress to enact legislation to that end.

Asserting that thousands of soldiers went into the front line trenches unable to shoot the rifles they were carrying, Alvin Owsley, national commander of the American Legion, made a plea for preparedness to eliminate a similar situation in the next war at a national gathering of legion adjutants at Indianapolis. Mr. Owsley urged the retaining of a sufficient army and navy so that it would not be necessary to rely upon other nations while the United States is training its armed forces in any future conflicts. G. L. Folbre, of Dallas, adjutant of the Texas department, also drew the attention of the legion men to the fact that untrained troops were sent to the front line during the war. "While serving at the front with the 32nd division, I transferred men to replacement troops and saw them go into the front line trenches and shot down when they could have protected themselves had they been trained even in the use of rifles," Mr. Folbre said. "Many of these men had been drafted into service between six weeks and two months before they were rushed into action." The views of the Texas legion official were supported by Austin A. Peterson, Wisconsin adjutant who urged the adjutants "to realize the seriousness of the preparedness situation at this time, particularly in view of the ever-increasing danger of the Turkish and Near East question." Other legion speakers urged the adjutants to encourage voluntary enlistment in the army in their states and to advocate military training on a larger scale in the high schools, colleges, universities and physical training in grade schools. It was asserted that the enlisted strength of the regular United States army at this time is even below the latest figure set by congress.

"The ex-kaiser in Holland must enjoy sitting back and laughing at the manner in which the politicians of America are treating the ex-service men who smashed his formidable military machine," Dr. Kate Waller Barrett, national president of the American Legion Auxiliary, said at a recent meeting of the Indianapolis Service Club.

SURVEY SHOWS TAXES

HIGHER THAN IN 1919

Republican claims that federal taxation has decreased under the Harding administration are challenged by the statements of the national industrial conference board, representing a large number of American manufacturers. This organization contends that instead of a reduction of taxes there has been an increase compared with 1919.

In the United States federal taxes alone totaled $4,925,000,000 in 1919 and in 1921 reached a total of $4,430,000,000, which appeared to be a decrease of 11.2 per cent. The report of the conference contends, however, that inasmuch as the 1921 dollar had a purchasing power of 26.9 per cent less than the 1919 dollar, federal taxes in 1921 were actually 15 per cent higher than in 1919.

The national industrial conference was not concerned in this report with partisan politics, so it did not take the trouble to point out that a Democratic administration was in power in 1919. The Harding administration came into control of the government in 1921.

FEASIBILITY OF ROUTES

The citizens of this city and county are, as we see them, of one mind in opposing the Hinkston route proposed for the Midland Trail highway for the same reasons as given by us and more. We think the old route practicable and also agreeable to the C. & O. railroad; preferable to the taxpayers because it would do away with the upkeep of the Mt. Sterling and Owingsville pike, and hence would be a saving to the county of at least $1,000 annually, and we would think this route would be preferable to the C. & O. railroad for the reason a viaduct would prevent the necessity of a railroad guard and a saving of the death rate incurred at the crossing. This old route, we must conclude, would be a money saver to both county and railroad company for the reasons set forth. The proposed Hinkston route is decidedly impracticable on account of the public school that is located on the route, the sharp angles in the road and the additional reason that travelers on the Hinkston route would never see Mt. Sterling, and many more would never know Mt. Sterling was on the map.

A suggestion? If the Midland Trail must go by the way of the Hinkston pike to Owingsville, we would suggest a route by way of Sycamore street from the Catholic church to Winn street, thence east to Maysville street and north to the Hinkston pike. Such a proposed route would be a travesty on good common sense, for travelers would have more corners to turn and would fail to see Mt. Sterling and "our new hotel." Seriously, we would not favor the Hinkston route under any consideration for the reason given and would go over the old turnpike road as understood the route would be when the vote on the bond issue was taken in Montgomery county and later in Bath county. It might be possible to fool these voters once, but it would be generations far in the future when it could be repeated.

CHRISTMAS

Before another issue Christmas bells of 1922 will be ringing. We take it as a joy season because a Savior was born 1,922 years ago. Think of the season of joy in this way and give praise to God for His wondrous love for a world in sin, with the plan of salvation free to whomsoever will accept it by faith. Praise Him.

J. C. CANTRILL WILL BE A CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR

J. Campbell Cantrill, of Georgetown, congressman from the Seventh district, made formal announcement of his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for governor at Louisville last night. Mr. Cantrill is the second entrant in the race, Congressman Alben W. Barkley of Paducah, previously having announced his candidacy.

Expressing himself as favoring a state-wide primary to determine the nomination of the Democratic candidate for governor, Mr. Cantrill declared in the statement announcing his candidacy his belief that it "would be political suicide for our party to make the nomination in any other way. Only in a primary election can the women voters of the state give full expression to their political opinions."

In his announcement Mr. Cantrill pledges himself, if nominated and elected, not to become a candidate for United States senator during his term of office. The term of the governor elected in the 1923 election will cover the selection of successors to both the present Kentucky senators.

Outlining the platform upon which his bid for the nomination was made, Mr. Cantrill declared his determination for full enforcement of all laws; expressed opposition to the tendency toward "pulling on the statute books laws regulating the business and pri-

MAKING THE MOST OF STORIES

One of the most valuable assets of the mother of small children is the ability to search through her treasure house of stories and find just the right one for the need of the moment.

All children love stories, and are eager to listen to any interesting one, but by giving careful selection to the selection of her stories a mother may make them contribute directly to the mental and spiritual development of her children. The real purpose of telling stories is to give joy, and of course this primary aim should always be uppermost in the mind of the narrator.

The simplest way to classify stories is according to the age of the hearers. Nursery rhymes are used universally as the very first stories, for they delight children who are still mere babies. The jingling rhythm first attracts the attention, and after many repetitions, as the little minds develop the words begin to convey mental pictures, and the story is gradually understood. Many babies only two years old recognize and enjoy most of the Mother Goose stories.

There is a slight gap between the Mother Goose tales and the first stories, given in story books. We have found that two-year-old children enjoy tales relating their own personal experiences, when told in a clear, direct manner. For instance—"Once a little boy named Preston went for a walk, and he fell down and began to cry. His friend, the squirrel, ran down from a tree and looked at him.

"His big friend, the dog, ran to him and barked 'Bow-wow!' Then along came his father and said, 'Don't stopped crying, and stood up, and smiled at all his friends." Mothers will find ample material for these home-made stories in every day happenings, and should use simple words and keep the action brief.

The stories that naturally follow these fall into two classes, those which relate incidents that might really have happened, and those which open up the world of fairy tales and make-believe.

Children of kindergarten age delight in fairy tales, because they stimulate the imagination. In this stage of mental development the imaginative powers are very alert, and little children live almost as much in the world of make-believe as they do in the real world. Because of this their minds crave fairy tales.

Nature lessons may be taught beautifully and impressively through stories. Children enjoy these, and at the same time gather much valuable information. Boys are especially interested in true stories of heroes, and many historical facts may be presented in this way.—Mary Frances Davis.

O LITTLE TOWN OF BETHLEHEM!

"O little town of Bethlehem,
How still we see thee lie!
Above thy deep and dreamless sleep
The silent stars go by;
Yet in thy dark streets shineth
The everlasting Light;
The hopes and fears of all the years
Are met in thee tonight.

"For Christ is born of Mary,
And gathered all above,
While mortals sleep, the angels keep
Their watch of wondering love.
O morning stars, together
Proclaim the holy birth!
And praises sing to God the King,
And peace to men on earth.

"How silently, how silently,
The wondrous gift is given!
So God imparts to human hearts
The blessings of His heaven.
No ear may hear His coming,
But in this world of sin,
Where meek souls will receive Him still,
The dear Christ enters in.

"O holy Child of Bethlehem!
Descend to us, we pray;
Cast out our sin, and enter in,
Be born in us today.
We hear the Christmas angels
The great glad tidings tell;
Oh, come to us, abide with us,
Our Lord Emmanuel!"
—Bishop Brooks, Boston Clergyman.

BAT ROOSTS

"Will banish insects with trained bats, says federal expert," is the title of a misleading half-column article appearing in many of the recent papers over the country. It is based on an interview with Vernon Bailey, chief field naturalist of the biological survey, United States Department of Agriculture, in which the writer was given some well-known facts regarding the habits of bats, which he might have read in any of a dozen books on mammals. To make a thrilling story the writer embellished these facts with numerous unauthorized statements, misquoted the information given, and conveyed the impression that artificial bat roosts would afford a remedy for mosquito pests. The article has not the sanction of the biological survey or of Mr. Bailey.

and the capacities of drainage ditches and tiles.

The irrigation district, the report says, has been rapidly growing in favor as a form of organization for reclaiming arid land or for improving existing irrigation systems. The bureau has aided a number of western states in perfecting laws relating to districts, and last year a careful study was made of the operation of the irrigation district law in each of the states. Much valuable work has been done by the bureau in finding the cost of obtaining a water supply for arid lands. Frequently it is less than the farmer's expense of preparing his land for irrigation, purchasing equipment and building the necessary improvements.

60 YEARS SEES BIG ADVANCE IN IRRIGATING ARID LANDS

Great progress has been made in the art of irrigation since the first crude works built 60 years ago, according to the annual report of the bureau of public roads, United States Department of Agriculture. In 1920 the area irrigated in the United States amounted to approximately 19,000,000 acres and the annual gross returns from irrigated lands is now nearly half a billion dollars.

In the task of converting so large an extent of arid lands into highly productive fields and orchards, the bureau, through its investigations, has rendered substantial aid. Methods of applying water to land have been studied in the principal irrigation sections. Investigations have also been made of the rise of alkali

HOME MANAGEMENT PROBLEMS INTEREST EXTENSION WORKERS

Greater emphasis on household management as a phase of home economics teaching was urged during the course of the conference of the home economics sections of the Association of Land-Grant Colleges held in Washington. In several states the work has begun with kitchen improvement, the underlying idea being to embrace gradually all the many sides of the subject.

Miss Martha Van Rensselaer, New York, said that home economics teachers would be neglecting an important part of their subject if they did not develop household management to the fullest extent. The term household management applies to the management of everything that pertains to the household and the care of it, including its expenditures and the standardization of its equipment, according to the speaker.

The organization of the household was considered a proper field for research in home economics departments of colleges and other institutions, by Ruth Wardall, of Illinois. Heretofore, Miss Wardall pointed out, home economics workers have concerned themselves largely with food in its many aspects. Clothing, shelter and household organization should receive attention next, as well as research in co-operation with such departments of a university as chemistry, medicine, liberal arts, sociology and engineering.

Representatives of the United States Department of Agriculture home economics and extension work invited those present from the state colleges to make suggestions at any time as to what problems the department might assist with. The greater part of the conference was concerned with home economics problems of a general administrative nature, the improvement of college teaching, and special problems of extension and research.

Samples of sheet asphalt paving from five large cities are being examined in the laboratory of the Bureau of Public Roads, United States Department of Agriculture, to determine if possible the cause of the formation of bad spots and waves, or corrugations. A few samples of bituminous concrete are also being examined. The samples have been cut both from good and bad sections of the same paving job and are examined for appearance of sample, grading of aggregate and quantity and characteristics of asphalt. Although a separate investigation from the traffic test on the circular track made of sections of bituminous concrete it is thought that each investigation may yield information helpful to the other.

"PEACE SUNDAY"

The Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America Tuesday issued a request to 100,000 congregations in the United States to observe December 24 as "world peace Sunday" to demand that the governments of the world find ways to settle their disputes other than by war.

The messages also asked that the churches act in concert throughout the year toward attainment of a warless world through international co-operation. Christians in twenty-seven countries will observe "World Peace Sunday," it was added, under an agreement reached last summer at

Copenhagen by the conference by world alliance for an international friendship through the churches

SPECIAL-SIX
SEDAN
$2050

Its Body Is as Sturdy as Its Chassis

Lasting satisfaction with a closed car depends not only upon the dependability of the chassis but upon the durability of the body.

In the Special-Six Sedan, Studebaker offers an admirable co-ordination of these vital requirements.

Stop in at our showroom and see this Sedan. Stand off and get a three-quarter view of it. Note its striking beauty. Step inside and relax in the nine-inch seat cushions. Note the great roominess and the completeness of the equipment.

Take a ride behind its 50-horsepower motor. Try the wheel yourself. Put it to any test—very test. Try its acceleration, speed, power. Ask yourself if you ever handled a car that steers so easily—that responds so satisfactorily with just what you want, when you want it.

The body is a product of Studebaker skill and craftsmanship which have been developed through more than two generations of vehicle building. Highest grade of materials and workmanship have produced a body as beautiful as it is enduring.

This Sedan is a good investment because of the saving in the initial outlay and the moderate cost of maintenance. The price is possible because Studebaker builds three distinct models with only one manufacturing and marketing cost and because middlemen's profits are virtually eliminated.

The name Studebaker stands for stability of body as well as chassis.

WHAT'S YOUR REACTION TIME? NEW QUESTION FOR AUTOISTS

"What is your reaction time or do you know the value of your personal equation?"

This has been suggested as a possible question to be put to applicants for motor vehicle driver's license, according to the Bureau of Public Roads of the United States Department of Agriculture. Reaction time is the interval of time that elapses between the instant of a sign or signal is seen and the necessary action started. A driver starts to pass another vehicle when suddenly a third vehicle appears which may block his path. The driver must decide whether to pass the vehicle or drop back. If his reaction time is slow he may not realize the danger until too late to avert an accident.

Every astronomer who observes when a star crosses a hair line in his telescope and presses a key so that the time may be electrically recorded knows that he does not observe the fact and press the key at the same time. A correction has been made which has been carefully determined and is called his personal equation. It varies with different people.

Timers of a foot race with split-second watches will frequently get different results for the time of the race.

The reaction time of some people is very slow and undoubtedly is the cause of many accidents. Does the public safety require that such people be denied drivers' licenses? The bureau of public roads is not yet ready to advocate such a policy, but considers that it should be investigated as a possible safety measure.

PUBLIC UTILITIES CONFERENCE

The following editorial appeared in the Lexington Leader, December 11, under the above caption:

Today and Tuesday the annual convention of the Kentucky Association of Public Utilities will be held in Lexington.

This will be an important conference and it would be well if many citizens could attend all sessions which are open to the public.

The public service corporations, in common with all forms of partnership and business associations and organizations, has during recent years passed through some trying times.

Many of these corporations, with revenue limited either by law or stubborn public resistance, have been compelled to bear increased burdens in the form of labor and overhead charges with no adequate means of reimbursing themselves. Some others, of course, fortunately situated, have been more prosperous.

Good business sense, ideal community interests, prompt a better understanding between the public utility corporations and the public. No progressive city can enjoy the prosperity to which it is entitled unless it is equipped with public service agencies which perform the important and often stupendous duties which fall upon them.

Local and interurban transportation, the distribution of water, ice, light and power, telephone and telegraph service, and so on, must for a long time yet be dependent upon public service corporations. Hence, the relations between the people and these corporations must be mutually pleasant and profitable, else the one will be inadequately served, the other will be crippled an inefficient, and will be unhappy.

A great deal of the friction which has existed between the public and the service corporation has been due in part to lack of information by the people of their true attitude toward the corporation and in large part to failure by the corporation to take the people into their confidence and make it possible for them to understand more intimately the problems with which the corporations contend.

In the minds of many thousands of persons the word "corporation" is synonymous with large profits, taken violently or fraudulently from the public, and it must be admitted that more than one public service corporation in the United States has been made a vehicle for stock-jobbers to ride on comfortably.

Another factor which has caused friction between the public and the service corporation has been failure to demand from subordinate employees courteous treatment of the individual patron. The officials of the public service corporation, from president to petty accountants, may in point of efficiency be all that brains and money can supply, but if at the point of contact between the patron and the corporation's ultimate representatives there is vulgarity, discourtesy, inefficiency, or a public-he-damned demeanor, all else counts for nothing. One of our great telegraph companies has learned this lesson well and is daily profiting by it.

The people in the mass are sometimes unreasonable, but the average man in his calm moments is disposed to be fair. With a better understanding between the public service corporation and the people, based upon common knowledge of each other's problems, there should be a good future for the various agencies which will be represented in Lexington today and tomorrow, and which already

UNIFORM GRADE OF SYRUP NEEDED IN SUGAR STATES

Attention is now being given to the production of a cane syrup of uniform standard quality by the bureau of chemistry, United States Department of Agriculture, which bids fair to be of great economic importance to the cane producing states.

A more extensive market for cane syrup is of great importance in the agricultural scheme of a large area of the south. In many sections cotton can no longer be profitably produced on account of ravages of the boll weevil. It is necessary to adopt a more diversified scheme of agriculture, and sugar cane is one of the crops on which greater reliance should be placed. It is one of the surest crops which can be grown in the region. The harvesting and production of cane syrup come at a time of the year when farm labor can be used very advantageously for that purpose. Farmers of the south are eager to increase the acreage of sugar cane. This is not possible, however, unless a more adequate market is developed for cane syrup through uniform grading.

Last year the bureau received a number of requests for assistance along this line and will undertake the solution of chemical problems involved in the plan of a number of co-operative cane syrup associations which have organized for the purpose of blending cane syrup on a large scale in central rehandling and canning plants. These associations are planning to use the Intervase method developed by the bureau for the purpose of producing a syrup that will not crystallize.

While a great deal of progress has been made in solving the difficulties which stand in the way of producing a uniform cane syrup of the highest grade, a number of points still remain to be worked out. However, improved larger scale methods for handling cane syrup have now become possible through the organization of the co-operative cane syrup associations and the operation of central blending plants.

If a man ever wants to swear, it's when he talks himself black in the face over the telephone and then discovers after he has finished that central has given him the wrong number.

KENTUCKY AND WINN

Under the above caption the Lexington Herald of Tuesday had the following:

The selection of Jack Winn, of Mt. Sterling, former star lineman of the Princeton football eleven and line coach at the University of Kentucky during the past season, to succeed Head Coach William Jewell as chief of the Wildcat staff of strategists for 1923, comes as a popular choice not only to the university undergraduates and football squad, but also to every Kentuckian who has the best interests of the state and its leading institution at heart.

Jack Winn came to the university at a critical time. The squad has good fine material, but it had few men who knew the tricks of a line man's trade well enough consistently to plug the holes in the front rank. Starting with a line that appeared ragged against the attacks of the mediocre University of Cincinnati backfield early in the season, Jack Winn developed a forward wall that, later in the season, stopped every opposing backfield man in the south with the lone exception of the incomparable "Red" Roberts of Centre—one of the greatest line plungers that ever stepped on a football field. The same line, more than any other factor, was responsible for the victories over Sewanee and Alabama and the low scores to which Centre, Tennessee and the unbeaten Vanderbilt team were held.

For 1923 the Wildcats have the best prospects in the last decade. With the regulars of the 1922 squad and the freshman eleven, champions of the south, from which to select material, Jack Winn has a golden opportunity to build up a team that will earn the highest honors in southern football.

Significant to Kentuckians is the fact that practically every member of the prospective 1923 squad is a Kentuckian. Centre built its wonder team around a nucleus of Texans. But Kentucky's university, with a team of Kentuckians and a Kentucky coach, will not need Texans next year. The Wildcats are out for a southern championship—and they intend to win it with a Kentucky team.

EUGENE O'BRIEN IN PERSON

The advance sale of seats for Eugene O'Brien's personal appearance in Robert L. Dempster's new play, "Steve," will open at the Ada Meade Theatre, Lexington, December 27, and as the engagement for the famous stage and screen celebrity is limited it would not be wise to delay in purchasing tickets. While personal appearances of photoplay favorites have been in vogue for some time, this is the first time that Eugene O'Brien, has been seen here as the star of a stage success. George M. Gatts is responsible for the return to the speaking stage of O'Brien. Robert L. Dempster is responsible for the charming romantic comedy and Laura Hope Crews is responsible for the excellent staging of the play. Mrs. Thomas Whiffen is the chief support in the perfect cast which comprises Vivian Ogden, Helen Weir, Ann Winston, Isabel Winlocke, Frank Herbert, Homer Barton, Phillip Lord, F. G. Patten and others. The play will be seen January 1 and 2 with a special matinee on New Year's day.
